Immigrants & Minorities is a refereed journal.

Articles submitted to Immigrants & Minorities should be original contributions and should not be under consideration for any other publication at the same time. If another version of the article is under consideration by another publication, or has been, or will be published elsewhere, authors should clearly indicate at the time of submission.

(Manuscripts. Manuscripts can be submitted as hardcopy in triplicate with a version on disk, preferably in Word format). Manuscripts should be typewritten on A4 Letter paper, on one side only, double-spaced and with ample margins. They can also be supplied electronically, via e-mail, as word documents. All pages (including those containing tables and figures) should be numbered consecutively. Manuscripts should be sent to David Mayall, Department of History, Faculty of Development and Society, Sheffield Hallam University, Sheffield S1 1WB, d.mayall@shef.ac.uk. All books for review should be sent to Tanja Bueltmann, School of Arts and Social Sciences, Northumbria University, Room 323, Lipman Building, Sandford Road, Newcastle upon Tyne, NE1 8ST. tanja.bueltmann@northumbria.ac.uk.

There is no standard length for articles but 8,000 words (including notes and references) is a useful target. The article should begin with an indented and italicised summary of around 100 words, which should describe the main arguments and conclusions of the article.

Details of the author’s institutional affiliation, full address and other contact information should be included on a separate cover sheet. Any Acknowledgements should be included on the cover sheet as should a note of the exact length of the article.

To facilitate typesetting, notes should be grouped together at the end of the file. Tables should also be placed at the end of the file and prepared using tabs. Any diagram or maps should be copied to a separate disk in uncompressed .TIF or .JPG formats. These should be prepared in black and white. Texts should be avoided, use open patterns instead. If maps and diagrams cannot be prepared electronically, they should be presented on good quality white paper. If mathematics are included 1/2 is preferred to ½. Each disk should be labelled with the journal’s name, article title, lead author’s name and software used.

Language: Authors are requested to keep British or American spelling consistent throughout an article and also capitalisation.

Key Words: Provision of up to six key words is much appreciated by indexing and abstracting services.

Notes and References: The journal uses Chicago Humanities style of referencing, with a reference list. This uses short endnotes, with the full reference in a List of References. This is a system that allows for extensive endnotes, and references to archive sources, but it can consume a great deal of space.

Endnotes: Please use no more than 50 endnotes: neighbouring references should be bunched into a single endnote. Endnotes are to enlighten the reader, not to demonstrate the erudition of the author. Explanatory endnotes are welcome.

Endnote style

In the text superior figures are used, for example At the end, the notes will read:
1. Bennett, The Birth of the Museum, 64.

The use of abbreviations such as ‘bid’ and ‘op cit’ is encouraged.

Reference List: The reference list should include only material cited in the endnotes. Therefore, if the author wishes to include in text something that is not included in the endnotes, the article has not specifically cited, this should be done in a special endnote. The reference list contains works to which a reader could reasonably be expected to make reference, mainly books and articles. Do not include websites, newspapers, archive records etc.; the endnote will suffice for these.

Reference List is in alphabetical order of surname, as follows:

The reference list should be given in alphabetical order, with the names of the authors inserted. Provide the full, unabreviated title of books and periodicals.

Tables. Tables, diagrams, charts should be referenced in the text as figures. All tables should be typed double-spaced on separate sheets in the same font size as the text and numbered sequentially with Arabic numerals. Each table should have a descriptive title as well as informational column headings. It is assumed that all graphics will be computer-generated. Maps, graphs, and photos should convey ideas efficiently and tastefully. Graphics should be legible, clean, and referenced in the text. A fine neat line defining the graphic field is preferred as a visual boundary between the text and graphics.

Quotations. Quotations should be in single quotation marks, double within single. Long quotations of several lines should be indented without quotes.

Free article access: As corresponding author, you will receive free access to your article on Taylor & Francis Online. You will be given access to the My authored works section of Taylor & Francis Online, which shows you all your published articles. You can easily view, read, and download your published articles from there. In addition, if someone has cited your article, you will be able to see this information. We are committed to promoting and increasing the visibility of your article and have provided this guidance <http://journalauthors.tandf.co.uk/beyondpublication/promotearticle.asp> on how you can help.

Copyright: It is a condition of publication that authors assign copyright or license the publication rights in their articles, including abstracts, to Taylor & Francis. This enables us to ensure full copyright protection and to disseminate the article, and of course the Journal, to the widest possible readership in print and electronic formats as appropriate. Authors may, of course, use the article elsewhere after publication without prior permission from Taylor & Francis, provided the acknowledgements are given to the Journal as original source of publication, and that Taylor & Francis is notified so that our records show that its use is properly authorised. Authors retain a number of other rights under the Taylor & Francis rights policies documents. These policies are referred to at http://journalauthors.tandf.co.uk/preparation/copyright.asp for full details. Authors are themselves responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyright material from other sources.

Author biography: Authors should provide brief biographical details to include institutional affiliation.
